Mt. Pleasant, TX – With the growing concerns of the coronavirus, Dekoron Wire & Cable wants to assure our customers that we are being proactive so we can continue to deliver our products and services in a timely manner. At this time, we do not anticipate business interruption.

We have been closely monitoring our supply chain and addressing any concerns regarding raw material supplies. Our manufacturing facilities remain completely operational and currently do not have any concerns regarding supply interruption to manufacture the products you depend on. We maintain close contact with our key suppliers to ensure the ability to meet current commitments. As the global situation continues to evolve, we will take appropriate actions to minimize supply interruption should the situation arise.

Our manufacturing facilities remain fully staffed and operational and we have taken appropriate safeguards to protect our employees. Access to our facilities has been limited to essential needs for business operations. We have also restricted all travel by air and mass transit for our employees until further notice.

The Dekoron Wire & Cable team is available to support any sales, service, and technical questions you may have. We request this communication take place via email, phone, or internet web conferencing.

We appreciate your business and look forward to continue working together through this unfortunate circumstance.
